ABSTRACT

The data presented are from the Higher Education General Information Survey (HEGIS) conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics in fall 1972. The number of full-time, part-time, and full-time-equivalent professional employees are presented by occupational activity and program function. The numbers of full-time, part-time, and full-time-equivalent nonprofessional employees are presented by program function. Survey questionnaires were mailed to the 2,680 institutions in higher education in the 1972-73 academic year with a 90.3 percent response rate. Some findings are: (1) 1,558,786 persons are employed in institutions of higher education, of whom 1,159,452 were on a full-time basis; and (2) professional employees represented 56.9 percent (887,165) of total employment: 613,145 on a full-time basis, and 274,020 part-time. FOREWORD

The data in this publication were reported in the Employees in Institutions of Higher Education survey which was included in the Higher Education General Information Survey (HEGIS) conducted by the National Center for Education Statistics in fall 1972. The numbers of full-time, part-time, and full-time-equivalent professional employees are presented by occupational activity and program function. The numbers of full-time, part-time, and full-time-equivalent nonprofessional employees are presented by program function.

The 1972 survey also gathered data on salaries of administrators and of full-time instructional faculty, and on fringe benefits of full-time faculty. These data are presented in a separate publication (Higher Education Salaries and Fringe Benefits, 1971-72 and 1972-73--NCES 76-130) which also includes data on the same subjects from a similar survey conducted in 1971.

The National Center for Education Statistics is grateful for the cooperation of officials in institutions of higher education who supplied the data presented in this report.

INTRODUCTION

In fall 1972, there were 1,558,786 persons employed in institutions of higher education, of whom 1,159,452 were on a full-time basis. Professional employees represented 56.9 percent (887,165) of total employment: 613,145 on a full-time basis, and 274,020, part-time. Approximately 70 percent of all professionals were employed in publicly controlled institutions.

The full-time equivalent (FTE) of all professional employees was 717,911. Among the six sectors of higher education as defined by institutional control (public and private) and by level (universities, other 4-year, and 2-year), public universities had the largest FTE professional employment (261,595); public other 4-year institutions had the second largest (137,834), closely followed by private other 4-year institutions (122,102). Public 2-year institutions, the most rapidly growing sector in higher education, had 101,057 FTE professional employees, nearing the employment in the group designated "other 4-year institutions."

Women constituted 27.6 percent (244,866) of the 887,165 professional employees in higher education. Table A shows the numbers of women employed full-time and part-time in each higher education sector and women as a percentage of total full-time and part-time employment.

NOTE.--These and other figures cited may include estimates for nonresponse. See section on Survey Procedures, p. 9, for discussion of estimating procedures.

Except in private universities, the percentages of women employed part-time were slightly higher than the percentages of women employed full-time.

In figure A, employment is compared with enrollment in higher education between 1966 and 1972. For this comparison, the employment trends are based on the sum of full-time and part-time employees, while enrollment is based on full-time and part-time students combined. Both enrollment and employment increased over that 6-year period, but enrollment increased at a considerably greater rate. From 1970 to 1972 the rate of growth in enrollment was slower than in the previous 4 years, and the growth in professional employment also leveled off. Nonprofessional employment remained at virtually the same level over the entire period.

Figure B shows the trends in full-time-equivalent professional employment for the six sectors of higher education between 1966 and 1972. Professional employment increased in all three levels of public institutions. In public universities and public other 4-year institutions, it increased at a slower rate from 1970 to 1972, but in public 2-year institutions it continued to increase at approximately the same rate since 1966. In private other 4-year institutions between 1966 and 1970, the rate of increase was slower than in any level of public institutions; in fact, employment declined slightly between 1970 and 1972. Employment in private universities remained at approximately the same level over the entire 6-year period, while in private 2-year institutions it declined.

Trends in employment of instructional faculty,[1] as shown in figure C, parallel those for total professional employment, although the rates of change over time are more gradual among instructional faculty. Between 1966 and 1970, instructional faculty increased in the three levels of public institutions at approximately the same rate. Between 1970 and 1972, employment of instructional faculty in public universities decreased slightly, growth in public other 4-year institutions slowed, but instructional faculty in public 2-year institutions continued at the same rate as in the previous 4-year period.

In that same 6-year period, private and public institutions showed noticeably different trends in employment of instructional faculty. In private other 4-year institutions, instructional faculty increased slightly from 1966 to 1970, then remained at approximately the 1970 level through 1972; in private universities, instructional faculty remained at the 1966 level through 1970 but declined in 1972. Employment in private 2-year institutions in 1972 was approximately the same as in 1966 with little variation over the 6-year interval.

The data upon which the trends in figures B and C are based are presented in table B for the reader seeking precise data rather than general trends.

TECHNICAL NOTE

The term instructional faculty used in figure C is consistent with the terminology in the 1972 survey. There were differences in survey categories and some definitional differences among the four surveys that affect comparability. In the 1966, 1967, and 1970 surveys, the employment categories changed slightly over the years, but the terminology and definitions were virtually unchanged. In the 1972 survey, terminology and definitions differed somewhat from the previous surveys, but, more importantly, employment was cross-classified by program function and occupational activity. This matrix resulted in an expansion of the categories formerly surveyed, thus introducing elements not directly comparable with previous surveys.

To compare employment data over a certain time period, as presented in figures B and C, and in table B, it was necessary to combine categories for brevity and to lend comparability among the various surveys. For this purpose, "instructional faculty" is defined as the FTE of those engaged in resident instruction combined with the FTE of those engaged in extension instruction. Data used in the calculations for the years 1966, 1967, and 1970 utilize the survey categories of "Senior Staff for Resident Instruction and Departmental Research" and "Public Service--Instruction" from the surveys of those years. Data for 1972 utilize the categories of "Faculty/Instruction" and "Faculty/Public Service."

SURVEY PROCEDURES

Survey questionnaires were mailed to the 2,680 institutions in the higher education universe in the 1972-73 academic year.[2] Responses were received from 2,420 of those institutions--a 90.3-percent response rate. The questionnaire is reproduced in the appendix.

The response to the survey was sufficiently high to provide a basis for the derivation of population estimates for the universe of institutions. All the tables in this report include estimates for the institutions that did not respond to the survey. Data for nonresponding institutions were estimated by substituting the data reported by a responding institution that had identical, or similar, characteristics to the nonresponding institution. The characteristics used to select a substitute for a nonresponsing institution were as follows:

(1) Institutional control--public or private.

(2) Institutional level--university, other 4-year institution, or 2-year institution.

(3) Sex of student body--male, female, or coed.

(4) Highest degree offered by the institution--less than baccalaureate, baccalaureate, first professional, master's, or doctorate.

(5) Type of program--terminal occupational, 2-year principally baccalaureate creditable, liberal arts and general, teacher preparatory, or professional.

(6) Total enrollment in fall 1972.

(7) Total professional employment reported in the HEGIS survey of Employees in Institutions of Higher Education, 1970-71.

Table 1 summarizes the data by both occupational activity and program function.

[2] The universe of higher education institutions surveyed is defined by the U. S. Office of Education in the Education Directory, Higher Education, 1972-73, DHEW Publication No. (OE) 73-1104. Washington, D. C.: U. S. Government Printing Office, 1972.

Tables 2-5 present the data by individual institution. The notation DATA NOT PROVIDED in these listings indicates that the institution did not respond to the survey. The estimated data are not shown for the institution but are included in the State and national totals.

All the data reported in the survey could not be presented in a single institutional listing. However, tables 2 and 3 present data by the two dimensions of the questionnaire matrix (i. e., occupational activity (table 2) and program function (table 3)). Since instructional faculty represent the single largest component of higher education employment, this occupational activity is presented in table 4 by program function. Finally, table 5 summarizes the numbers of men and women professional employees in higher education institutions.

To facilitate processing of data and for user convenience, the figures in all tables are unrounded and the totals were obtained by addition of the details. This is not intended to imply that the data are accurate to the units digit.

DEFINITIONS

MULTI-CAMPUS INSTITUTION. An organization bearing a resemblance to an institutional system, but unequivocally designated as a single institution with either of two organizational structures: (1) an institution having two or more campuses responsible to a central administration (which central administration may or may not be located on one of the administratively equal campuses) or (2) an institution having a main campus with one or more branch campuses attached to it.

MAIN CAMPUS. In those institutions comprised of a main campus and one or more branch campuses, the main campus (sometimes called the parent institution) is usually the location of the core, primary, or most comprehensive program. Unless the institution-wide or central administrative office for such institutions is reported to be at a different location, the main campus is also the location of the central administrative office.

BRANCH CAMPUS. A campus of an institution of higher education which is organized on a relatively permanent basis (i.e., has a relatively permanent administration), which offers an organized program or programs of work of at least 2 years (as opposed to courses), and which is located in a community different from that in which its parent institution is located. To be considered in a community different from that of the parent institution, a branch shall be located beyond a reasonable commuting-distance from the main campus of the parent institution.

INSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM. A complex of two or more institutions of higher education, each separately organized or independently complete, under the control or supervision of a single administrative body.

PART 1 – NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES IN HIGHER EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS BY PROGRAM FUNCTION AND OCCUPATIONAL ACTIVITY, FALL 1972

The classification and definitions of employees used in this survey are in conformance with the personnel classification system developed by the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems at WICHE, entitled "A Manual for Manpower Accounting in Higher Education." [1] Chapters 2 3, and 4 of this manual define the categories of employees included in this survey.

SCOPE

The population for this part of the survey includes the full-time and part-time personnel employed by the institution for at least two semesters, three quarters, or two trimesters of the 1972-73 academic year. The survey includes employees: (1) paid a salary or on an hourly basis, (2) on sabbatical leave, and (3) contributing their services (e.g. members of religious orders and members of military organizations). EXCLUDE those: (1) on leave without pay, (2) on emeritus status, (3) hired for brief periods of consultation, (4) employed by organizations under contract to provide a service to the institution, and (5) all employees in Federally Funded Research and Development Centers.

DEFINITIONS

EMPLOYMENT STATUS – The institution's definitions of full-time and part-time employment should be used as the basis for reporting the employment status of personnel included in this survey. Each employee is reported only once. as either full time or part time. Full-time employees engaged in more than one program function should not be reported as part time in each of these functions, but should be reported as full time in only one function. (See PROGRAM FUNCTION for reporting of employees performing more than one function.)

TOTAL FULL-TIME EQUIVALENT – Total full-time equivalency is requested to provide a more accurate measure of the total effort expended in each of the program functions covered in this survey. For example, a full-time faculty member who devotes two-thirds of his effort to instruction and one-third of his effort to organized research would be reported as a full-time person in instruction, but his total full-time equivalent would be reported as 0.7 in instruction and as 0.3 in organized research.

Institutions that do not have detailed records of the full-time equivalency of full-time and of part-time employees by program function, should compute the full-time equivalent for each function as follows:

$$\text{full-time persons in the function} + \frac{\text{total load of part-time employees in the function}}{\text{normal load of one full-time employee}}$$

A normal full-time load is the number of credit hours or clock hours that your institution considers to be a full-time load.

PROGRAM FUNCTION – The program functions used in this survey are defined in Chapter 3 of "A Manual for Manpower Accounting in Higher Education." Six of the seven programs defined in the manual are included in this survey. The Instruction, Organized Research, and Public Service programs are surveyed individually, while the Academic Support, Student Service, and Institutional Support programs are surveyed collectively. The seventh program, "Independent Operations," is excluded from this survey.

Persons engaged in more than one program function should be reported under the function to which they devote the majority of their time. If one's time is equally distributed among two or more functions, he should be arbitrarily counted in only one of the functions. However, the total full-time equivalent should reflect the distribution of effort in each function.

OCCUPATIONAL ACTIVITY – Occupational activities are defined in Chapter 2 of "A Manual for Manpower Accounting in Higher Education." Four of the seven activity levels defined in the manual are surveyed collectively as "Nonprofessional." The nonprofessional positions are defined in the manual as "technical," "office," "crafts and trades," and "service." These activities should be reported as nonprofessional whether or not the incumbents hold bachelor's or higher degrees.
